This week has been another busy and exciting one across the school.

Our Reception children were delighted to welcome their parents and carers into school for their Harvest Festival celebration. They did an amazing job singing beautifully and confidently delivered their lines. It was wonderful to see how much progress they have made already this year. Thank you to all of the children and the Reception team for their hard work and dedication in putting together such a special event.

Year 1 had a fantastic visit from the Fire Service this week. The children thoroughly enjoyed learning about fire safety and finding out more about the important role firefighters play in our community. The visit certainly inspired a number of aspiring firefighters amongst our pupils!

Today, we celebrated World Mental Health Day by taking part in Hello Yellow. It was wonderful to see so many children dressed in yellow to support this fantastic cause and to promote the importance of looking after our mental health and wellbeing. Throughout the day, the children spent time discussing the Zones of Regulation and exploring different emotions, helping them to recognise and talk about how they are feeling. Thank you for your generous donations, which will be going to the YoungMinds charity. We will let everyone know the total amount raised in next week's newsletter.

Finally, we have been contacted by a local resident who was concerned about some children riding bikes and scooters very quickly along the pathway outside school. We would be grateful if parents and carers could please remind children to use their bikes and scooters safely and to be considerate of other members of the public using the path. Your support in helping us maintain positive relationships with our neighbours and ensuring everyone can use the area safely is greatly appreciated.

Thank you, as always, for your continued support. I hope you all have a wonderful weekend.

Mrs Owen.

Spotlight on .....

The Zones of Regulation

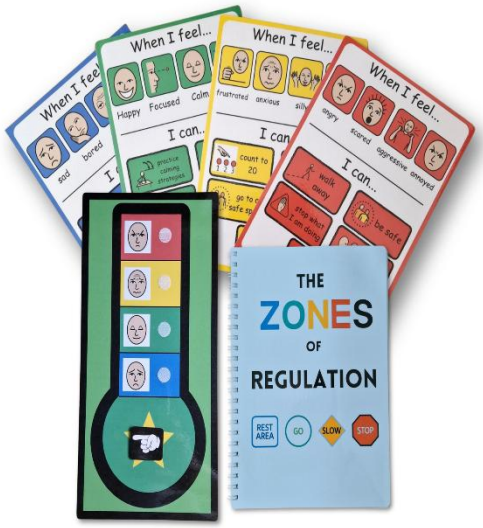

We are committed to helping children develop not only academically, but also socially and emotionally. One of the ways we support this is through the Zones of Regulation, a whole-school approach that helps children to understand their emotions, recognise how they are feeling and learn strategies to manage those feelings successfully.

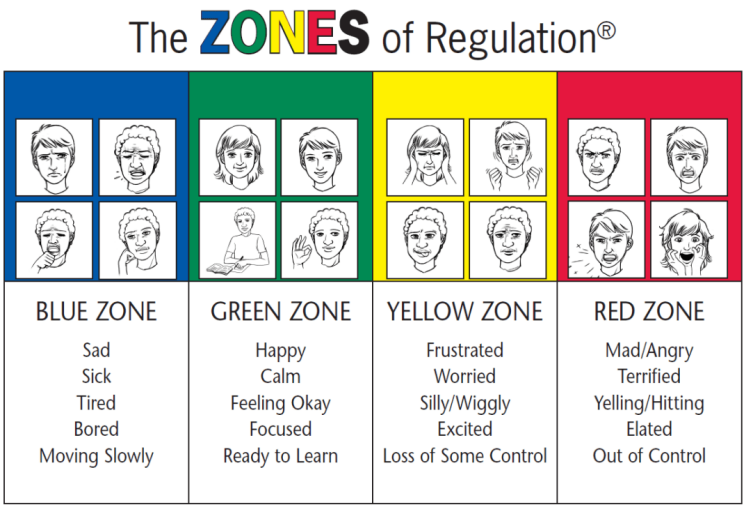

The Zones of Regulation provide children with a simple, visual framework for talking about emotions. Rather than seeing feelings as "good" or "bad", children learn that everyone experiences a wide range of emotions every day and that all feelings are valid. The focus is on recognising these emotions and responding to them in positive and appropriate ways.

Throughout school and nursery, children are encouraged to on how they are feeling and to identify strategies that can help them. This might include taking some calming breaths, having a movement break, talking to a trusted adult, using sensory resources or finding a quiet space to reset. Over time, children develop a toolkit of strategies that work best for them.

The Zones of Regulation also help us create a shared language across the school. This allows staff and children to talk about emotions in a consistent and supportive way, helping children to feel understood and supported. It encourages self-awareness, empathy and emotional resilience, all of which are important life skills that will support children both in school and beyond.
By teaching children how to recognise and regulate their emotions, we are helping them become more confident learners, build positive relationships and develop the skills needed to cope with challenges, setbacks and new experiences. We encourage families to continue these conversations at home by talking openly about feelings and discussing strategies that help everyone in the family feel calm, safe and ready for the day ahead.

In Collective Worship this week …

In Collective Worship this week, we have been learning about one of our British Values: Mutual Respect. We read The Smeds and the Smoos by Julia Donaldson and used the story to explore how people can be different, whilst still treating one another with kindness, fairness and respect. We reflected on the importance of valuing everyone, celebrating diversity and recognising that we all belong. The children shared examples of how they can show mutual respect in school by listening to others, being kind, including everyone in their games and appreciating that we are all unique.

Tips For Wellness Appreciation

Dimensions tool

Free online personalised self-care information & support for adults and children in Coventry & Warwickshire

Appreciation is a feeling of thankfulness or an act of recognising something that is important or meaningful to you.

We can appreciate or recognise another person through complementing them and sharing what you like about them. We can say 'thank you' to others when someone is helpful or supportive. This has benefits for both our mental health and for the people around us. We can also appreciate ourselves – you are important and unique! Remember to celebrate when you achieve big and small things and stop to appreciate what you have done.

Learning to appreciate others and ourselves can improve our self-esteem, improve our mood and improve our relationships with others.

Our tips for appreciation:

1. Create a "be proud" board at home or at school where you post your drawings or good deeds.
2. Start a gratitude journal – write or draw things that make you feel proud or happy every day.
3. Give a compliment - think about a person who is important to you and tell them 3 things that you like about them. You could write a letter or a small note to let them know how much you appreciate them. Use these sentence starters to help you:
   - I like how you...
   - You are...
   - Thank you for...
   - You make me happy when you...

   Makaton video
4. Say 'thank you' – remember to thank other people throughout the day, to show them you appreciate what they do for you. If you have a friend who speaks another language, you could learn to say 'thank you' in the language that they speak. You could also learn to say 'thank you' in Makaton (sign language) too! Have a look at the video above to help you!
5. Self-appreciation - think of something small that you have achieved this week. Pause and take a minute to appreciate what you have done. Which of your positive qualities did you use? Kindness, thoughtfulness, curiosity, creativity?

In Coventry and Warwickshire, for any urgent mental health concerns, contact the RISE Crisis Helpline available 24/7, by calling NHS 111. Alternatively, call 999 or visit A&E in an emergency, for example if medical attention is required.

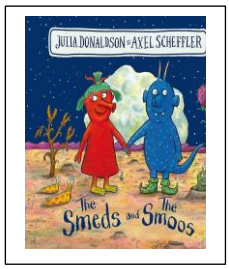

MHST are available to support you and your school throughout the school year including term time and school holidays.

Book of the week

Title: The Smeds and the Smoos

Author: Julia Donaldson

Recommended by: Mrs Owen

'This week in Collective Worship, we enjoyed reading The Smeds and the Smoos by Julia Donaldson.

The story tells the tale of two groups who believe they are very different from one another, but who eventually learn the importance of friendship, acceptance and belonging. It linked perfectly to our discussions about Mutual Respect, one of our British Values, and encouraged the children to think about celebrating differences and treating everyone with kindness.

A fantastic story with an important message for children and adults alike.

E-Safety tip of the week

This week's focus: Games Consoles!

Talk with your child about responsible use of their games console

Discuss what is okay and not okay to use it for and look at the possible risks. Tell your child what they should do if something goes wrong while using it. This could be to turn off the screen and tell an adult.

Think about the location of the games console

Will it be in a shared family space or in a bedroom? Think about: setting time limits; reminding your child about the risks of communicating online with people that they do not know; and encouraging them to come to you with any worries.

Explore parental controls

Take a look at the controls available both on the games console itself and on your home Wi-Fi. Talk these through with your child too. Parental controls are a helpful tool, but an open conversation with your child is the most important thing.
